

Web Hosting: How much does it cost to get a web site built?

There is no easy answer to this question. It is like asking how much does it cost to buy a car. Do you want a cheap 4 cylinder car from Korea or India just to get you around for short trips or do you want a Mack Truck for heavy hauling or do you want a luxury European car to travel in comfort.

What we do know is that the starting for the site build is about $500 and can go over $100,000 for large corporate sites. It all depends on your requirements and budget.

If you are new to web site hosting, please note that you also need a domain name and somewhere to host your site so it appears on the internet.

Do not worry if all this sounds too hard. We can do it all for you.

Unique solution ID: #1011

Author: Rod

Last update: 2012-01-30 03:09